License Tracker For Therapists

PSYPACT 101

Multiple factors can prevent a specific patient from seeing a specific therapist. Their respective locations is one such factor. Until recently, a patient could only see therapists who received licenses to practice in their state.

The Psychology Interjurisdictional Compact, or PSYPACT, is changing that. Keep reading to learn more. This overview explains what PSYPACT is and how it's helpful for therapists and their clients.

What is PSYPACT?

PSYPACT offers a range of potential benefits to both therapists and their patients. Specifically, PSYPACT allows participating therapists to treat their clients across state lines (in states and jurisdictions which participate in the compact) via telehealth appointments.

Traditionally, psychologists and other such professionals have only been able to practice in the states or territories in which their licenses were issued. This has naturally resulted in such difficulties as
